Events

Kopernikana

September 6-October 12, 2013
Aginews-Shell Film Retrospective and Annual Kopernikana Lectures

Full 2013

November 3
Lecture/Screening: "The Nationhood of Koreans: Philip Jones, instructor in international relations, U-M; University of California, Berkeley; and University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

November 4

November 5
Copernicus/Polish Club Lecture: "The Polish and the Polish-American, " Brian Foster-Stark, professor of sociology, U-M; University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

November 11

Winter 2014

Events in the International Institute/UMSI, 2014, unless otherwise noted.

January 14

February 10

March 18-19
Film and Conversation: "The Death of Captain Jakub (1971) and The Death of Anna Szewczyk (1971), " directed by, and followed by a conversation with Witold Suzuki, professor of history, literature, and culture, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

April 7-8
Lecture: "A Country with No Exit? Migrations in Poland," Thomas H. Catherine (anthropologist) taught the Polish Language course named "Mediation," where she reformed and focused on students reading from Malinowski’s "Poland," which she discovered that U-M "was the only one of the United States that offers that kind of program."

Professor of History

A. J. Z. D. (Slavic) received a Rackham Predoctoral Fellowship for 2013-14. She presented a paper at a conference in St. Petersburg, Russia. She is the 2013-14 recipient of the Copernicus Endowment for Incoming Graduate Students.

Professor of History

B. Tomlinson ’16 and ’48

Jodi Greig (Slavic) co-taught the course, "Women’s Film Retrospective and Film Retrospective," on Polish and American cinema. She presented a paper on Polish films in Poland in the summer.

Professor of History

Ewa Pasek (Slavic) taught first- and third-year Polish and recently added a translation of Zofia Nowakowska’s "Werewolf," directed by Katarzyna Szymańska-Staniszewska, an instructor of Polish and European film history. She has presented papers on music in the spring term. Her dissertation will focus on Methodology and Focus on Methodology in Postsocialist Poland."

Professor of History

Jessica Robbins-Ruszkowski (Slavic) is the 2013-14 recipient of the Copernicus Endowment for Incoming Graduate Students. She presented a paper at a conference in St. Petersburg, Russia. She is the 2013-14 recipient of the Copernicus Endowment for Incoming Graduate Students.

Professor of History

Anna Grzymała-Busse (Slavic) accepted a Józef Tischner Fellowship at the Institute for Human Sciences in 2012-13 working on the Armenian Genocide. She presented a paper at a conference in St. Petersburg, Russia. She is the 2013-14 recipient of the Copernicus Endowment for Incoming Graduate Students. She presented a paper at a conference in St. Petersburg, Russia. She is the 2013-14 recipient of the Copernicus Endowment for Incoming Graduate Students.

Professor of History

Elena Znamenskiy (Slavic) received a Predoctoral Fellowship for 2013-14. She presented a paper at a conference in St. Petersburg, Russia. She is the 2013-14 recipient of the Copernicus Endowment for Incoming Graduate Students. She presented a paper at a conference in St. Petersburg, Russia. She is the 2013-14 recipient of the Copernicus Endowment for Incoming Graduate Students.

Professor of History

Norman Thomas (anthropology) taught the Polish Language course named "Mediation," where she reformed and focused on students reading from Malinowski’s "Poland," which she discovered that U-M "was the only one of the United States that offers that kind of program."

Professor of History

George Award for Best Article in Qualitative Research in Humanities won the 2013-14 working on the Armenian Genocide. She presented a paper at a conference in St. Petersburg, Russia. She is the 2013-14 recipient of the Copernicus Endowment for Incoming Graduate Students.
This year marks the 40th anniversary of the Copernicus Endowment for Polish Studies at the University of Michigan. For this special occasion, we prepared a commemorative booklet highlighting some of our distinctive achievements and events, and showcasing our faculty and students. Our past is memorable and the future is bright! Please write us at copernicus@umich.edu to obtain a hard copy or view it online at www.ui.umich.edu/copernicus. As you know, we need your support to establish an endowed Polish language lectureship, and to continue providing fellowships to our students and offering a rich and diverse program for the U-M and Ann Arbor communities.

I hope you will join us in perpetuating the U-M Polish Studies tradition by making a contribution and by participating in this year’s exciting program.

To make a donation online, visit: www.ui.umich.edu/copernicus/online-donate

For more information about how to support Polish studies and the Copernicus Endowment, contact copernicus@umich.edu or 734.647.2237

2012 Donors to the Copernicus Endowment

From the Director

The Michigan Copernicus Endowment was established in 1973 to commemorate the 500th anniversary of the Polish astronomer’s birth. Actively co-funded with the cooperation of students, faculty, and the Polishעי Fighters of Michigan, the Copernicus Endowment is sustained today by the energy and financial resources of hundreds of individual sponsors. The annual goal of the Endowment is to enable faculty appointments, programs, and events reflecting Polish studies. Resource来自 the Endowment under the Annual Copernicus Endowment also underwrites the continued scheduling of public events dedicated to advancing knowledge of the social, cultural, and political aspects of Poland.

Since 1983, the University of Michigan has hosted prominent political, cultural, and academic figures from Poland at part of the Annual Copernicus Lecture series.

Solving Committee:

Genevieve Zubrzycki, Program Director
Maryna Olszewska, Assistant Director
Thomas Stenger
Anna Gajewska
Patric K. modular
Petra M. Miller
Jared Frank
Julie Hefling
Olgierd Smolar

COPERNICUS ENDOWMENT

ATHINTHEUNIVERSITYOFMICHIGAN

Kopernikana