

Herakles and Kerberos

Kerberos was the three-headed dog who guarded the gates of Hades to prevent the dead from escaping. He is depicted with a mane of snakes and often a snake tail. Capturing Kerberos from the Land of the Dead was Herakles's final Labor. Image found on Louvre Hydria E7101, 6th century BCE.